Coming Real Estate Changes—What the Railroad Wishes to do—No Lots For Sale on Main Street—Great Day at the Beach—Personals.

There are rumors in town of impending important real estate changes pending starting to the members of the Stove club. One is to the effect that the N. Y. N. E. & H. railroad has purchased what is known as the Reed block, and will either remove it, or use it for a lodging house for its workmen while making changes along the line. It is even asserted that Mr. Reed has given notice to his tenants that they must be prepared to leave the venerable structure by a given date. Others say Mr. Reed would like to buy the Russell property, near the barber shop, and either build upon it or occupy the small buildings which are already there. But it is understood the Russell property is not for sale. Mr. Russell, who lives in New York, once contemplated building a fine block himself, and the reporters had much to say about the plans, the style of the building, etc. The panic came and building was deferred. But this Reed proposition really has a serious aspect. The reason for all the gossip is found in the statement that the officials of the railroad wish to extend a couple more tracks from the yards in Bridgeport through this town. If two tracks are allowed to be built on the western side of the road as it now is, the street which runs from Main street to Church, will be blotted out. And if the Reed block comes down, and the tracks run past the present bridge across Main street will have to be enlarged. The town should see to it that the bridge is elevated. It will also be a good time to consider the matter, and have a loop constructed along the line of the steam railway, and thus forever remove the menace to East Broadway. All these things will give our residents something to think about.

The Rebekah food sale of home made rye bread, held on a day or two ago looking for a lot on Main street, which they could purchase and erect a block upon.

On Sunday no less than three automobiles got stuck in the same slough on the beach road, on the way to Little Bridgeport beach.

Rev. E. Livingston Wells was one of the clergy who attended the meeting yesterday at the rectory in Southport, but owing to the dangerous condition of his brother-in-law, Roderick P. Curtis, he did not join the company at dinner, but remained at the Wells residence close by, where Mr. Curtis was breathing his last.

W. H. Donaldson has sent to the citizens of the town the following circular letter: "Your attention is called to the town regulations concerning house drains, cess-pools, privies, out-houses, garbage, and other sources of decomposition and infection. It is of the highest importance to the public health as well as the comfort of yourself and neighbors, that all such exposed insects, during the heated term especially, be avoided. The Town Health Officer will inspect the premises where such conditions are reported, inspected, and take such action as will be found necessary. The co-operation of all is invited to remedy the conditions recently found in this town by representative of the State Board of Health, and given publicity to the press."

BASE BALL NOTES.
Accompanied by about 500 rooters the Stars left Southport on the 12:45 train for Greenwich to play the team of that borough. Drew pitched a good game and John Carroll on 3rd played in fine form, making several overthrows, throwing to first base in league style. He was the only Star to score a run which was due to his clever base running, he stealing 2nd and 3rd base and scoring on a scratch hit. Luke Whalen, a Fairfield boy, who conducts a lunch wagon at Greenwich, played 3rd base on that team, played it well. The score was, Greenwich 7, Fairfield 1.
Next Sunday the Stars play the Lincolns on McGarry's grounds. The following Sunday they play the strong Darien team which defeated the Greenwich 17 to 0.
The Star Juniors played a double headed Sunday on Bulkeley's grounds and won both of them by the following scores: Morning game, 6 to 4; afternoon game, 19 to 2. Bolan, their star pitcher, pitched both games.
